Chandler Chicco Agency Announces Expansion of Washington, DC Team Led by New Office Head

March 18, 2009 – Global healthcare communications specialist, Chandler Chicco Agency (CCA), an inVentiv Health company (NASDAQ: VTIV), today announced the hiring of Al Jackson to lead the agency's Washington, DC office. In addition to Jackson, CCA DC brought onboard Michal Fishman as a senior staffer.

Jackson, formerly partner/director of Ketchum Public Affairs, will be responsible for expanding the agency's healthcare public affairs offering and further developing overall business growth within CCA's DC operation. A 20-year industry veteran, Jackson has broad and deep expertise with public relations and public affairs programs involving health policy, advocacy, grassroots engagement, online mobilization, and crisis communications.

Previous positions held by Jackson include vice president of Political Affairs & Grassroots Advocacy for the American Hospital Association and director of Political Action Division for the American Medical Association.

Fishman, formerly principal of MDF Communications, LLC in New Orleans will join the CCA DC office as senior team member. A communications strategist for more than 15 years, Fishman has strong experience managing policy issues and public image for Fortune 100 companies and non-profit organizations. Her previous experience includes work at Pfizer Inc as director of US Public Affairs and director of Regional Marketing Group, as well as time as a vice president in the Washington, DC office of Edelman.

"The changing healthcare landscape raises the bar for companies and organizations to effectively build, enhance and protect their brand and further their public affairs agendas," says Bob Chandler, founder and principal of Chandler Chicco Agency. "Our DC office, under Al Jackson's leadership, is primed to become the go-to agency for high-impact healthcare public relations and public affairs campaigns,” he added.

Chandler Chicco Agency’s DC office is the epicenter of the agency’s public affairs and health policy expertise, boasting staffers with Capitol Hill, Administration and agency experience. Their clients include pharmaceutical and bio-tech companies, healthcare foundations and coalitions, and patient groups and medical and professional organizations. The DC office also is home to Health360Strategies, a public policy partnership between the lobbying shop Mehlman Vogel Castagnetti and Chandler Chicco Agency.
